

With the rise of React, it's become easier to find talented developers who are skilled in React, than developers who are skilled in various flavors of CMS UI development frameworks.

Jesus Olivas, the Head of Engineering at WeKnow, a 40-person agency based in San Diego, CA, explains:

On the agency side of things, it's easier to get a developer that knows React, than finding another developer that knows Drupal theming [and] Twig...