

Support

Node.js contributors have limited availability to address general support questions. Please make sure you are using a currently-supported version of Node.js.

When looking for support, please first search for your question in these venues:

- Node.js Website, especially the API docs
- Node.js Help
- Open or closed issues in the Node.js GitHub organization

If you didn't find an answer in the resources above, try these unofficial resources:

- Questions tagged 'node.js' on Stack Overflow
- #node.js channel on libera.chat
- Node.js Slack Community
 - To register: nodeslackers.com

GitHub issues are for tracking enhancements and bugs, not general support.

The open source license grants you the freedom to use Node.js. It does not guarantee commitments of other people's time. Please be respectful and manage your expectations.
