

The `<ng-content>` element specifies where to project content inside a component template.

`@elementAttribute select="selector"`

Only select elements from the projected content that match the given CSS `selector` .