

Why subtract .02px? Browsers don't currently support range context queries, so we work around the limitations of `min-` and `max-` prefixes and viewports with fractional widths (which can occur under certain conditions on high-dpi devices, for instance) by using values with higher precision.