Some popular libraries use decorators in their documentation.

Create React App intentionally doesn't support decorator syntax at the moment because:

- It is an experimental proposal and is subject to change (in fact, it has already changed once, and will change again).
- Most libraries currently support only the old version of the proposal — which will never be a standard.

However in many cases you can rewrite decorator-based code without decorators and achieve the same result.

Please refer to these two threads for reference:

- #214
- #411

Create React App will add decorator support when the specification advances to a stable stage.