Introduction

All backend implementations need to adhere to our API spec.

For your convenience, we have a Postman collection that you can use to test your API endpoints as you build your app.

Check out our starter kit to create a new implementation, please read references to the API specs & testing required for creating a new backend.