A dynamic progress bar is better.

```
import { Progress, Button } from 'antd';
import { MinusOutlined, PlusOutlined } from '@ant-design/icons';

class App extends React.Component {
  state = {
    percent: 0,

  increase = () => {
    let percent = this.state.percent + 10;
    if (percent > 100) {
      percent = 100;
    }
    this.setState({ percent });

  decline = () => {
    let percent = this.state.percent - 10;
    if (percent < 0) {
      percent = 0;
    }
    this.setState({ percent });

  render() { return (
      <>
        <Progress type="circle" percent={this.state.percent} />
        <Button.Group>
          <Button onClick={this.decline} icon={<MinusOutlined />} />
          <Button onClick={this.increase} icon={<PlusOutlined />} />
        </Button.Group>
      </>
    );
  }
}

export default () => <App />;
