Guidelines

Here are a few things you can do that will increase the likelihood of your pull request being accepted:

- For a new feature or function, please create an issue first to discuss it with us before submitting a pull request.
- Keep your change as focused as possible.
  - If there are changes in multiple directories you would like to make that are not dependent upon each other, please submit them as separate pull requests.
- The pull request should have a useful title and description.
  - Explain the rationale for your change in the pull request using a pull request template.

Additional Resources

- How does a good pull request look like
- Why good commit messages matter